

THE INSTITUTE FOR CONNECTED COMMUNITIES

ICC EVALUATION UNIT

Involving UEL Researchers, Lecturers and Support Staff in Consultancy and Contracted Research

The University of East London (UEL) has a long and proud tradition of being a civic university and we will build on this. The ICC evaluation unit is based in the Institute for Connected Communities and is made-up of a multi-disciplinary team of academics and associates able to undertake high quality evaluations. The goal of the evaluation unit is to serve as an evaluation exchange connecting UEL researchers /thought leaders to organisations in the public, private and third sector. We engage with all the schools, University structures and work with ReDs to ensure the evaluation unit fosters a system-wide approach. We aim to demystify research and evaluation processes and support the growth in evidence-based decision making to help build safer and more resilient communities.

We provide opportunities for researchers, lecturers, and support staff.

- › We help to broker evaluation and research contracts
- › We run evaluation clinics to find solutions to your research or evaluation challenges and help you to demystify the process
- › We provide knowledge transfers to connect people and projects
- › We provide help to disseminate your research/evaluation findings
- › We provide coaching and mentoring to build research skills and understanding
- › We will help you to produce high quality funding applications and to undertake safe and ethical research.
